

Press Release

500 Limited are offering a free consultation during the show.

IT Decisions open the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre doors to conferees on Tuesday 28th June and has a packed programme for attendees. The key topic this time round is 'cloud-based' services and their use within businesses and public sector bodies.

Cloud-based technologies are no longer the bleeding edge they once were and this is particularly relevant in the field of telephony. 500 Limited should know – they have been successfully advising businesses on hosted 'cloud-based' telephony services for the past four years.

Chris Wright a senior telecommunications consultant with 500 limited says: "Businesses usually think desk top and email when talking about modern 'cloud-based' services, however they should also consider hosted telephony. Extremely cost-effective, resilient and feature-rich; it caters for all of the modern business requirements: flexibility of supply; linking home, mobile and office-based users in one system and modern integration with desktop applications to provide real competitive advantage."

500 Limited are exhibiting at the show and have taken to the opportunity to offer attendees a free consultancy session on their stand. Attendees can either register on arrival at the show or pre-book by contacting Chris on chris.wright@500.uk.com or call 0845 0000 500 to register by phone.

Notes for editors:

500 Limited are based in St Albans, with an office in the City.

Contact details:

Chris Wright
0845 0000 500
www.500.uk.com
chris.wright@500.uk.com